Germans Admit Sinking of Two Heavily Armed Fighting Vessels

THE GERMAN CRUISER KARLSRUHE

Bluecher and Karlsruhe Sent to Bottom In Naval Operations Against Norway

BERLIN, April 10.—The German cruisers Bluecher and Karlsruhe have been sunk in operations against Norway, the German high command announced today.

The 10,000-ton Bluecher was said to have been damaged by Norwegian coastal batteries and then to have run into a mine barrier. The Karlsruhe, 4,800 tons, sank at Kristiansund, Southern Norway, after disembarking troops. Most of the crews of both ships were said to have been rescued.

An army commander claiming air raids yesterday on Allied naval vessels said both had been scored on four battleships, two battle cruisers, three heavy cruisers and two transports. Of warfare in the north the communiqué said, "operations at sea still are underway."

"Several explosions" shook the Bluecher before she sank after running into the Norwegian mine barrier. The Germans said they had silenced the heaviest Norwegian coastal batteries but not until the Bluecher "suffered severe damage." The mines finished her.

The Bluecher, a heavy cruiser, was completed only last August. She had eight 8-inch guns, 24 anti-aircraft guns, 12 torpedo tubes and three airplanes. The number of her crew was a naval secret.

The Karlsruhe, built in 1927, had a normal complement of 571 men. Armed with nine 5.9-inch guns, 14 anti-aircraft guns and 12 torpedo tubes, she carried two planes.

Navy's Beaten At Narvik Fjord

Second Major Sea Fight In Progress Off Swede Coast

LONDON, April 10.—Norwegian and Swedish sources tonight asserted that British forces had captured the western Norwegian ports of Bergen and Trondheim, which were occupied by Germans yesterday, but official British quarters refused to confirm the report.

LONDON, April 10.—War at sea and on the biggest scale since Jutland tonight apparently found the Royal Navy smashing Germany's naval power in the very waters that saw the Kaiser's fleet defeated in 1916.

Destruction of a German destroyer, two troop transports in the Skaggerak was reported in London tonight, indicating naval units had penetrated this entrance to the Baltic in a swift blow at Hitler's efforts to support his Scandinavian gamble with troops enough to back up the play. Such penetration would sever Germany's communication lines to Norway and jeopardize whatever chance she had of staying there.

As Great Britain prepared to fall on German forces in Norway with the full strength of her navy backed by an expeditionary force, rumors persisted that the navy already had captured Bergen and Trondheim, occupied when the German invasion of Norway started.

It was reported also that British fighting ships had returned to Narvik, high up on Norway's western coast, and landed bluejeaned marines to follow up this morning's engagement when one German destroyer was sunk and three left burning.

Admiralty Awaits Evidence

None of these reports was confirmed by the Admiralty, which evidently was waiting until all the evidence is in.

There were salient points, however, in fragmentary stories of a big sea battle or series of engagements going on since yesterday along the storm-tossed Norwegian coast, actions in which it was evident the Allies were meeting success insofar as extent of the fighting was known.

How many German ships had been ordered out, how many ships of the Royal Navy and French home fleet lay in wait for them, was a matter of conjecture. Premier Paul Reynaud of France told his Senate that "a great many" German ships had "exposed themselves" and that the rest were bottled up in Norwegian ports.

German Warship Reported Sunk

Later the Stockholm radio said a German warship was reported to have been sunk by British action near Arendal, Norway, on the northern shore of the Skaggerak.

The radio also said a German destroyer had been sunk off Kristiansund. Dr. Brauer had conferred with minister Olaf Thygesen, newest and largest unit of the Norwegian navy.

GREENLAND MAY BE TAKEN OVER BY DOMINION

OTTAWA, April 10.—Immediate fate of Greenland, a Danish possession, now that Germany has overrun Denmark looms in discussion here but the external affairs department declined today to comment on whether Canada would take over supervision of this territory.

Impression in Ottawa is that Greenland cannot be regarded as a submarine or air base for Nazi activities.

The decision will be whether it can be parceled from Great Britain or Canada and this division already has advantages in its solution. Strait radio stated that the British might not be in complete control of the deep Fjord leading to Norway's captured capital. The ships' message said she had been fired on by coastal batteries at Nykøbing deep within the Fjord.

The foreign secretary said the Scandinavian political and military situation still is in a state of confusion and that it is impossible to claim a complete knowledge of events.

He addressed a luncheon of the National Defence Public Interest Committee at the Admiralty and said that the British government was determined to defend itself against any extension of German domination in the North Atlantic and the Atlantic which it would be impossible for the committee to discuss.

"You can take it from me," he said, "that the British navy is not in a position to negotiate with Germany as well founded, but he added that in any event the Allies would continue to fight for Norway."

He said he did not know whether the report that Norway was ready to negotiate with Germany was well founded, but he added that in any event the Allies would continue to fight for Norway.

Lord Halifax Asserts Navy Is Not Idle

Lord Halifax, who declared that Britain will fight for Norway despite any agreement that country may have made with Germany, underlined the British government's determination to maintain its future relations with Russia.

British Emerge As Victors In Battle Of Destroyer Ships

LONDON, April 10.—A reliable source today said it had learned that units of the Royal Navy had forced an entrance to Narvik Fjord in northern Norway and that marines are now being landed. It was indicated that the British destroyer flotilla, which earlier had engaged a German naval force in the Fjord and withdrawn, had returned.

LONDON, April 10.—Five British destroyers forced their way into Narvik Fjord in northern Norway at dawn today and sank a German warship and seven auxiliary vessels, Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today.

The British flotilla lost two destroyers in its fierce encounter with six enemy destroyers of the "latest and largest type." After one German destroyer was torpedoed and sunk, the British raiders sent to the bottom six freighters carrying soldiers to the German forces and later in withdrawing from the fjord, encountered a German minelayer ship which was exploded.

The German ships were supported by shore batteries, officials here probing two mysterious deaths and one mysterious birth which occurred in the city Wednesday night.

NORSE TROOPS ADVANCING ON NAZI INVADERS

Sharp Fighting Reported In Vicinity South Of Elverum

STOCKHOLM, April 10.—Norse fighting in the vicinity of Charlestown, Norway, was reported by both German and Norwegian sources today.

The German political circles asserted that a German government representative named Dr. Brauer had conferred with King Haakon of Norway at Hamar today.

Previously German reports from Berlin had said the Norwegian government had fled from Hamar where it was established yesterday.

The German circles alleged that King Haakon did not accompany the Norwegian government from Hamar but had remained to receive Brauer.

Major Battle Looms Between Norse, Nazis

BRITAIN, April 10.—A major battle between the Norwegian and German forces was reported developing today near the village of Trondheim.

The German forces were reported in strong defensive position and the Norwegian forces were reported on the coast south of Trondheim.

According to messages received at the front, the part of Trondheim still was in the hands of Norwegian forces and could be used as a base for landing of allied troops if they seek to retake the city.

The German forces at Narvik, Norway, expressed the belief that the battle might be a decisive one for the entire northern area.

Hitler's New Assets Of Norway, Denmark May Be Liabilities

By GUY RICHARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Adolf Hitler whose Scandinavian blitzkrieg yesterday opened the civilized world appears to have an increasingly real and very object he was supposed to have been seeking—Swedish iron ore.

His seizure of Norway, including Narvik in the north from which the Germans were made produced an Allied declaration that Narvik would be blockaded. In fact Premier Paul Reynaud said the French senate "not one ton of ore."

On the other hand he gained for a time the vast amount of goods, but he has been the German mark and to British experts, says that to seize the ore Hitler for the next month will get only what he needs to keep his war machine going.

SUPREME TEST AWAITS BRITISH IN NORTH WAR

Brute Versus Civilization Is Case At Present, Says British Press

LONDON, April 10.—Britain's press said today that Germany's invasion of Denmark and Norway put the case of "brute versus civilization" clearly before the world.

"This is a supreme testing time for the British government," said the Daily Herald.

"The Daily Telegraph said that 'Nagasaki's invasion of Norway and Denmark has intensified hostility to Germany in every free country of the world.'"

KATISFACTION FELT
"But in the horror felt at this new brutal aggression there is little surprise," the Telegraph said. "The cardinal principle of Nazi policy is to plunder and enslave the weak."

"There is every reason for the allied nations—and indeed for all nations—to feel that Germany's invasion of Denmark and Norway is a country over which the sea powers are dominant—points to a desperate weakness in the Reich."

The Daily Express said: "Once again we see the brutality of Hitler. Once again we have a warning of the German capacity for swift, ruthless and well-organized action. But this time Britain can strike back. An expeditionary force of 500,000 men was ready to go to Finland—these men, and more, could be made available for the defense of Norway."

"Hitler's invasion is a gamble. They may turn out to be a glib blunder."

"Is Norway his real objective? It may be that Hitler has no intention of establishing a large force in that country. The invasion may be a feint. On this interpretation his object may be to divert allied forces to Scandinavia while he launches his main offensive against the low countries of the Balkans. Already he is turning the heat on Holland. Already Hungary and Rumania are feeling scared."

"But watch Russia, if Hitler moves north in Scandinavia, Stalin will have more and more incentive to move west to Narvik and the Swedish iron ore mines. A pre-arranged plan for the mutual carving up of Sweden and Norway is possible."

WAR ON MANKIND
The Daily Herald said: "Hitler makes war on all mankind. The battle is now fully joined, brute versus civilization. War is not reason, without excuse, without warning or ultimatum or declaration of war he attacks the innocent and peaceful nations. And with one of those nations—Germany—armed only last May by a pact of peace and non-aggression. Hitler looms supreme. But if there is one crime, crime he is more famous than another it is a crime far more heinous."

Ribbentrop Proposed Scandinavia Invasion
PARIS, April 10.—Genevieve Tabouis reported in L'Ouvrier yesterday that the German foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, proposed the invasion of Scandinavia in a letter to Adolf Hitler last November.

The well known French commentator said that the Reich navy minister, Erich Raeder, had proposed the invasion then because of the inferiority of the German fleet and the fact that the Allies were not well prepared. But Raeder was overruled by Hitler.

The similarity between the invasion of Scandinavia and the invasion of Poland was stressed by French newspapers in editorial comment yesterday.

"This is also a supreme testing time for the British government. Poland was lost. Poland is lost. In each case there were obstacles in the way of effective intervention. But Hitler has now struck in a direction where allied sea power places strategic aid of immense value in our hands."

"The British people are entitled to assume that the Allies have made all necessary plans. They will watch with painful care every de-

STERLING FALL IS NOT SIGN OF WEAKNESS

LONDON, April 10.—The fall in the financial rate for sterling on foreign markets is "in no way a sign of financial weakness or difficulties on that part of this country," Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, said yesterday.

The prime minister's announcement confirmed rumors which have been circulating with regularity for a long period that the new department would be set up and that Mr. Howe would be its head.

When power was obtained at the emergency session of parliament last September to create this new department, it was announced by Mr. King that the power would be exercised only if and when it was decided the department was needed.

"In the opinion of the government, that need has now arisen," the announcement stated. The war supply board, which succeeded the defence purchasing board set up last July, has placed orders in Canada for more than $12,000,000 worth of materials and construction.

In addition to Mr. Campbell, the board consists of G. E. Gravel, Montreal; W. C. Woodward, Vancouver; and Lt. Col. W. A. Harrison, Saint John, N.B. It has a large technical organization which will form the nucleus for the new department.

Parade of Horses, Jumping Highlight City Spring Show

Splendid jumping, several spills, and a parade of Western Canada's finest Percheron and Belgian horses thrilled a first night audience of about 1,000 at Edmonton's arena for the opening of the Spring Show sponsored by the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

I Saw Today

recalling the last hockey season in the east with a friend along the main boulevard.

It was a great evening for the Briercrest Stables, Edmonton, as Leroy Goldsmith, a five-year-old boy, took first place in the novice class for gelding class, went on to win the novice light-weight hunter classes from stiff competition and also the Hudson's Bay challenge cup for the best novice saddle horse in the show.

Lady Bessie, owned by H. Harrison, Edmonton, a well-known performer in Edmonton show rings, won the single pacer or trotter class from P. Collins, owned by Messrs. S. Collins and J. Nobis.

ENTRY WITHDRAWN

Showing for the first time in the spring show ring, the entry of Ryan Brothers, St. Albert, was unfortunately to be caught in a driving jam which resulted in a wheel being ripped off their vehicle, compelling them to withdraw their entry.

Judging of the heavy horse classes was continued at the arena Wednesday morning, and the annual auction of finished cattle was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon with J. W. Durso, Calgary, vied with Messrs. S. Collins and J. Nobis.

SPECTACULAR EVENTS

Wednesday evening in the arena some of the most spectacular events of the horse show will be staged, including the judging of six-horse teams, four-horse and several jumping competitions.

Another feature will be the parade of Clydesdale horses. The following are the results of Tuesday evening's events at the arena.

Norse Are Fighters War Veteran Avers: Want To Get Nazis

Germany will have a hard time trying to subdue Norway, as the people are a fighting race and the country is mountainous, similar to British Columbia, it was stated by L. Hoving, Edmonton resident who served in the Norwegian army from 1911 to 1918, when he was retired with the rank of colonel.

There is no question that the people of Norway are almost 100 per cent favorable to the Allies, he said. "But there must have been a small Nazi organization there which prepared the way for the Germans to land, because it is surprising to me that they made such a quick landing at Bergen and took Oslo so quickly."

"The Germans were not able to land at Oslo, but they landed at Moss, 35 miles away, and marched into Oslo, something Norway was not prepared for."

He declared the Norwegian army would welcome the chance of battle with the Germans. "The government would not have declared war if they did not mean to fight," he added.

Mr. Hoving summed up the report that Norwegian officers were seen riding in cars with the Germans in Oslo. "No real Norwegian officer would do that," he said. "They must have been Germans dressed up."

This is the first time in which Norway has been engaged since they fought Napoleon, he said. "The Norwegians have never been fighting since that time was in 1800 when they mobilized to fight the Swedes."

"But they had brains enough to together against a common enemy," he said. "They were not afraid to die for their country, and they were not afraid to fight."

He felt that the Allies would have difficulty in landing troops in Norway, but they could quickly enough, before German fortifications were prepared.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
VAL CAVALIER, a movie writer, annoyed on a freighter to find excitement for the title, is a little better with the title.
EDDIE CAVALIER, a prize fighter, was a dull, glowering fellow and the sirens of both ships were screaming above the thunder and the rain.
Eddie could hear Captain Hansen's voice bawling out over the gale and the startled, muffled cries which came from the other ship out there in the murk.
A gigantic wave broke over the bow and Eddie, horrified, as he reeled forward, saw it crashing down over the girl.
He slipped once, fell to the deck himself, almost blinded by the torrent of rain beating into his face.
The mountain of green-black water roared upon Val, lifted her up and carried her toward the other side of the ship.
The next wave that broke over the rail would sweep her overboard.
Even as the engines of the ship went into reverse to bring the vessel to a stop, the great wall of water crashed against her side, rose over the bow and splashed down on Val.
